Response to Remarks

2. Applicants request acknowledgement of priority for Japanese Patent Application No. 11-302548 filed October 25, 1999.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 4-6, 10-12, 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- A. The following terms lack antecedent basis:

- | | | | |
|------|------------|---|-----------------------|
| I. | An E-mail | - | line 1, claims 4-6 |
| II. | A method | - | line 1, claims 10-12 |
| III. | A computer | - | line 1, claims 16-18. |

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1, 2, 4 – 8, 10 – 14, 16 – 18, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hara [US Patent No 5,938,725], in view of Spencer et al. [US Patent No 6,349,299].

8. As per claim 1, Hara discloses the invention substantially as claimed including an E-mail terminal device comprising:

a judging unit which judges whether or not a reply destination mail address extracted from an E-mail received is an address of a mailing list capable of broadcasting the same E-mail to a plurality of destinations at one time [col 2, lines 64-67; col 3, lines 51-60; and col 4, lines 48-56];

the reply destination mail address is the address of the mailing list [col 3, lines 61-col 4, lines 11], a selecting unit which displays the at least one extracted mail address as a candidate for a reply destination from which a specified reply destination can be selected [col 3, lines 14-28; and col 4, lines 2-11].

Hara does not specifically disclose
an extracting unit which automatically extracts at least one mail address contained in a text of the E-mail received.

Spencer discloses
an extracting unit which automatically extracts at least one mail address contained in a text of the E-mail received [Figure 5D; col 7, lines 32-46; and col 9, lines 60-64].

It would have been obvious to a person skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teaching of Hara and Spencer because Spencer's teaching would allow to determine all destination address of recipients in an efficient manner.

9. As per claim 2, Hara discloses the invention substantially as claimed including an E-mail terminal device comprising:

a first extracting unit which automatically extracts a reply destination mail address from a mail header of an E-mail received [Figure 4; col 2, lines 64-67; and col 6, lines 18-26];

a selecting unit which displays all the extracted mail addresses as candidates for reply destinations from which a specified reply destination can be selected [col 3, lines 1-3; and col 6, lines 29-40];

a judging unit which judges whether or not a reply destination mail address extracted from an E-mail received is an address of a mailing list capable of broadcasting the same E-mail to a plurality of destinations at one time [col 2, lines 64-67; col 3, lines 51-60; and col 4, lines 48-56];

Art Unit: 2154

the second extracting unit, when the reply destination mail address is judged to be the address of the mailing list, automatically extracts the at least one mail address [col 3, lines 61-col 4, lines 11; and col 4, lines 48-56].

Hara does not specifically disclose

a second extracting unit which automatically extracts at least one mail address contained in a text of the E-mail received.

Spencer discloses

a second extracting unit which extracts at least one mail address contained in a text of the E-mail received [Figure 5D; col 7, lines 32-46; and col 9, lines 60-64];

It would have been obvious to a person skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teaching of Hara and Spencer because Spencer's teaching would allow to determine all destination address of recipients in an efficient manner.

10. As per claim 4, Hara discloses a storage unit including a mail address book by which whether or not the reply destination mail address extracted from the mail header of the E-mail received is the address of the mailing list, can be judged [col 1, lines 10-20 and lines 29-37].

11. As per claim 5, Hara discloses a processing unit which stores [claim 1, lines 3-4; and col 2, lines 58-59], if the mail address extracted from the text of the E-mail received is not registered in the mail address book, a name of this unregistered mail address as a name unknown in the mail address book in a format of corresponding to the mail address [col 1, lines 35-37; and col 3, lines 56-59].

12. As per claim 6, Hara discloses a display unit which displays, when visibly displaying all the extracted mail addresses as the reply destination candidates, the name of the mail address extracted from the text of the received E-mail and unregistered in the mail address book as the name unknown in the format of corresponding to the mail address [Figure 4].

13. As per claims 7, 8, 10-12, they are method claimed of claims 1, 2, 4-6, they are rejected for similar reasons as stated above in claims 1, 2, 4-6.

14. As per claims 13, 14, 16-18, they are program product claimed of claims 1, 2, 4-6, they are rejected for similar reasons as stated above in claims 1, 2, 4-6.

15. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 2, 4-8, 10-14, 16-18 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

16. A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 3 (three) months and 0 (zero) days from the mail date of this letter. Failure to respond within the period for response will result in ABANDONMENT of the application (see 35 U.S.C 133, M.P.E.P 710.02, 710.02(b)).
